BEAT PRISON MEDICAL OFFICER BECAUSE HE ADVOCATES FORCIBLE FEEDING.

ARE WORKS SLASHED

Suffragette Vandal Hacks Valuable Paintings and Turns on Attendant Who Tries to Interfere.

London, June 3.—The suffragettes today again turned their attention to the prison medical officer, Dr. Francis Edward Forward, medical officer of Holloway jail. Two women armed with horse-whips sprang onto the doctor as he left his prison, and he was struck and struck him repeatedly before the police came to his rescue and arrested the assailants. The women declared that their action was a "protest against a forcible feeding" which they said had been used on a woman prisoner. Dr. Forward refused to charge the women with the assault, but the police detained them on a charge of disorderly conduct. Once before on October 11, 1913, Dr. Forward was attacked in a similar manner.

An arson squad of suffragettes early today burned a large cricket pavilion at Earl's field southwest of London. Another arson squad set fire to a country residence near Belfast, but the blaze was discovered and extinguished with small damage. A savage attack with the hatchet today was made by a young and stylishly dressed young suffragette on an attendant at the Doore gallery, who tried to prevent her from destroying valuable pictures on exhibition there. The woman had already ruined two paintings in which she is in the part of the fashionable quarters of London and was hacking a third when an attendant, named Bourlet, seized her arm. She kicked, struggled and screamed until she was turned over to the police.

A letter was left in the gallery by the attendant's assailant in which she asserted militants heretofore have been too "ladylike." She adds: "To stop this you must give us justice. We are willing to die for it before we give in. We have tried all other ways. We have been too ladylike in the past and now we are going to fight and you can allow us to be killed. Others will rise to take our places. I have joined in the war."

Editors Assailed. Belfast, Ireland, June 2.—Militants today assaulted managing editors of two of the leading newspapers of Belfast, which had criticised the militant campaign. Two well-dressed women, one a militant, went to the Belfast Telegraph office and were ushered to the editor's rooms. Without speaking a word the largest one walked up to the Mr. Stewart, managing editor and with her clenched fist, knocked him out of his chair. At the same time the other woman hurled a mulligan bottle at his head. The women then went to the News Letter office and made a similar attack on Mr. Anderson of that newspaper. Mr. Anderson has since been confined to his bed and is under surgical treatment.

SUGGESTS BARTLETT HEAD POLAR PARTY

Rear Admiral Robert Peary Favors Explorer for Head of Expedition to Antarctic Regions.

New York, June 3.—Rear Admiral Robert Peary, the Arctic explorer, who reached the north pole on his last trip to the north, in a communication sent from his home in South Harbor, Maine, suggested that Captain Robert Bartlett be sent to the Antarctic at the head of the American expedition.

Capt. Robert A. Bartlett.

Peary's statement was prompted by the news that Bartlett, after his ship the Kariuk had been crushed in the ice, led his people to safety on Wrangell island and then made a long and trying journey to obtain relief for them.

Another man in the country to-day possesses Bartlett's combination of qualifications for such work," said Peary.

DEDICATE COLLEGE FOR TURKISH WOMEN

Institution Made Possible by Rich American Women Built on Shores of Bosphorus.

New York, June 3.—A new era in higher education for women in Turkey was marked today by the dedication of the five new buildings on the property of Constantinople College at Armutkuyu, on the European shores of the Bosphorus. The five buildings dedicated today represent an endowment of $750,000. They form a semi-circle on a hill top overlooking the Bosphorus. Fifty-four acres was acquired in 1908 and the construction of the buildings was begun in 1910. The late Mrs. Henry Woods of Boston was the first subscriber with a gift of $50,000. The other contributors were Mrs. Helen Gould Shepherd, $200,000, for the construction of the hall; Mrs. Oliver Phelps for the erection of the dining hall; Mrs. Russell Sage for the construction of the dormitory; and the two remaining buildings are the school of education and the academy building.

SPECIAL DEPUTIES GUARD ROCKEFELLER

Fifty Special Policemen Protect Oil King From Attack by Industrial Workers.

New York, June 3.—Sheriff Doyle of Westchester County in which is situated the country home of John D. Rockefeller, was last night authorized by the trustees of Terrytown to appoint fifty special policemen to serve for thirty days or until the situation here of the industrial workers of the world has cleared. Several applications for permit for open air meetings were refused. The trustees issued statements saying they considered such gatherings inadvisable at this time. The sixteen prisoners taken in the last demonstration of Terrytown, now in White Plains jail, have ceased their hunger strike. Besides increasing the police force to fifty to guard against a threatened invasion by the industrial workers of the world, the town authorities here today began paying Fountain Square, where the gathering had been held, with a soft, far like preparation. Whether this was done by chance or by design, it will eliminate the square as a rendezvous for several days to come.

FAIR REMOVAL TALK IS AGAIN RENEWED

State Exposition Substitute Suggested Following Wrecking of Buildings in Sunday's Storm.

Madison, Wis., June 3.—With extensive buildings down and none of the building appropriations available because Milwaukee county refused to meet the conditions made by the legislature, the plan of Secretary of State John S. Donald, to substitute an exposition, was revived when reports of the storm at West Allis were received. Mr. Donald is convinced that the present policy of maintaining an expensive plant like the state fair park, valued at upwards of one and one-half million dollars for 365 days a year, is not right, and that these buildings should be near some state institution where they would be useful much of the year. The plan is to hold an exposition of ten days or two weeks to the place of what is now generally known as the state fair. The plan was presented to the special legislative committee and received much favorable comment. It is now believed that the project will receive still further serious thought. Owing to the need at the experimental farm for barns, stock judging pavilions, and other buildings, and for other spacious buildings adjacent to the university, Secretary Donald believes that would be a wise location and probably of the greatest value to the state. The plan would be a resource of exceeding value to the people of the state if rightly used. An illustration is furnished by the ten days' farmers' course given each winter at the agricultural college. He said also that our forefathers chose a beautiful site for the university and the state capital, that the state has made large investments, and that the historical library and museum contain a wealth of interest and knowledge that cannot be duplicated. All belong to the state, and he is convinced that a policy should be adopted to give the people an opportunity to use them.

KING GEORGE CELEBRATES FORTY-NINTH BIRTHDAY

London, June 3.—King George received private congratulations today from the crowned heads of Europe on the occasion of his forty-ninth birthday. Official congratulations were too numerous to mention. The king is too busy to take a proper birthday and has postponed the formal celebration until the third anniversary of his coronation. Nevertheless a salute of forty-nine guns was fired by artillery in St. James Park and at Windsor, while flags were flown from all government buildings. For several days packages containing presents from members of the royal family and intimate friends have been arriving at Buckingham palace, and his sons and daughter clubbed together for a birthday present of which they made a great secret. The king, who married Queen Mary in 1893, has five sons and one daughter. He succeeded to the throne on May 6, 1910, on the death of his father, King Edward VII.

ABOUT TO CAPTURE FUGITIVE ARMY OF MEXICAN FEDERALS

Constitutionalist Forces Battle Up Army in Flight from Saltillo.—Federal Force Dwindles.

Durango, Mex., June 2, via Apazaco. June 3.—The federal force which evacuated Saltillo and fled southward, is bottled up at Vanegas, about one hundred miles south of Saltillo, according to a statement received today from General Carranza. General Gutierrez, who with his brigade was ordered to cut off the federal retreat, checked the move toward San Luis Potosi. Hundreds living near Mexico City, who joined the federal army on an announcement from Huerta that the constitutionalists and federals had joined to fight the American invaders, have deserted the federal ranks since they have discovered this untrue, and joined the constitutionalists. Refuses Interview. Laredo, Texas, June 3.—General Jesus C. Obregon, brother of the constitutionalist leader, today refused to be interviewed on Huerta's announcement last night that he is going to resign. Other prominent Nuevo Laredo constitutionalists, however, expressed emphatically the opinion that they believed their victory over Huerta would not warrant them in accepting the offer of a general amnesty. They believed their leader would be willing only on the following points of the mediation: Salute to the American flag. Arrest of American officials. Censorship by Huerta officials of American state department messages. Elimination of Huerta. American occupation of Vera Cruz.

STARTS FOR FOREIGN HOME AND IS ROBBED

Young Swiss Leaves Oshkosh for Mother Country But Returns After Losing Savings.

Oshkosh, June 3.—Xavier Schnuriger, a young Swiss who had saved about $500 in five years' work at the Lumber company, has returned home from Montreal a sadder and wiser man. He left here intending to return to his home in Switzerland and visit his parents and other relatives. He bought a steamer ticket here intending to board the steamer at Montreal. Arriving there he was taken in tow by a stranger who claimed he ought to change his money for French money, and at the same time told him that he would get more for it with the result that the stranger disappeared with Schnuriger's roll amounting to $400. Schnuriger spent one night in jail rather than go to a boarding house, and received $35 on his steamer ticket—enough money to return to this city. No trace of the stranger was found by the sheriff and Schnuriger is again at work for the Paine Lumber company.

The son was arrested this morning and, after bleeding for four hours, died in the home at 19 Garfield avenue at one o'clock. John Polczynski was sixty-three and his son was twenty-two. Hatred was aroused because his son had no employment at present and was not contributing to the support of the family.

FEMALE MOSQUITOES ARE MORE DANGEROUS

Female of the Species Gorges Self on Blood to Supply Nourishment to Thousands of Eggs.

Madison, Wis., May 29.—The female mosquito is more harshly condemned than the male because of the biological department of the state university, who have undertaken to show how the mosquito world may be depopulated. "Female mosquitoes members of the fair sex are fierce blood suckers and who inject an irritating poison under our skins, and they may accompany the dose of toxin with a few fever germs. The males, however, are comparatively harmless," says one member of the university biology department. "There is little danger," he continues, "of malarial or other mosquito-borne infection from the female, but the malarial mosquito, hibernates during the winter in our attics, cellars and closets, but the absence of infected people and our low annual mean temperature will prevent malarial fever becoming prevalent in this state. However, the presence of our many lakes and other outstanding water often makes mosquitoes an intolerable pest. Female mosquito gorges herself with blood in order that the eggs may have abundant nourishment. She deposits her little egg raft on the surface of quiet water during the night and the larvae which the larvae hatch. The larvae are the 'wigglers' or 'wiggle tails' which are seen in ponds and rain water barrels the world over. Though mosquito larvae always develop in water, they must breathe air and frequently come to the surface. After a few days the larvae sheds its skin and becomes a big-headed pupa which rests at the surface until it splits up the back to allow the adult mosquito to emerge. This emerging business is a delicate operation which cannot be carried out successfully during windy weather. That is the reason why there are more mosquitoes on quiet evenings. The best way to get rid of mosquitoes is to destroy their breeding places, for the adults never fly far. This not only means draining swamps and breaking up stagnant water, but filling in ponds, but clearing up tomato cans, putting netting over troughs and rain water barrels, watching the eave troughs. If it is impossible to get rid of standing water near your premises, oil placed on ponds will kill the larvae when they come to breathe. Kerosene or any light fuel oil will serve for this purpose. About one ounce of oil will cover fifteen square feet. Applications should be made once a week."

Reducing the Rent

Mr. Storekeeper, did you ever figure out that you can utilize advertising to reduce your fixed charge for rent?

How? By the very greatly increased business it will bring you. Just figure your advertising cost as part of the rent and figure your new percentage on the greater volume. If it does not work out you have not given the public what they want. The results of advertising in a good newspaper like The Gazette are as certain as anything can be if you have voiced your appeal properly.

PROPOSE AMENDMENT TO RAILROAD LAWS ON SHIPPING LOSS

Senator Cummins Introduces Amendment to Protect Shippers, Making Railways Pay All Actual Loss.

Washington, June 3.—Senator Cummins' proposition that the Carmack amendment to the interstate commerce commission law be rewritten so as to hold the railroad liable for general loss of shipment during transit was before the senate today. In explanation of the bill Senator Cummins told the senate that the supreme court had held recently that the Carmack amendment making initial railroad carriers liable for the loss of shipment, had been such an entrance to a field of legislation that it annulled all state laws on liability for damage to interstate shipments. As a result the railroad have proceeded to fix the liability to the value stated in the bill of lading. He contended that the shippers rarely knew what was in the bill and had no more chance of making a fair contract of shipment with the railroad than a child had of whipping a prize fighter. He asked for a passage of the law that railroads pay the actual loss suffered by shippers, except where the shipments were wrapped where the interstate commerce commission had granted permission for the making of rates on values. At the same time his bill would withhold from the commission authority to approve the value rates for the shipment of ordinary live stock.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY IS SEEN BY MORRIS

Lieutenant Governor After Tour of State Is Inclined to Be Most Optimistic.

Madison, Wis., June 3.—The state of Wisconsin is going republican at the fall election by a large majority. This prediction was made here today by Lieut. Governor Thomas Morris, candidate for United States senator on the republican ticket, upon his return from a tour of nearly a score of counties, including the northern counties from Lake to river. Mr. Morris spoke at Fountain City and Bayfield, and at Ashland he was the principal speaker at a big republican banquet. In addition to discussing political matters with leaders in the north, he held conferences at Green Bay and Milwaukee. "This is going to be a progressive republican victory," said Mr. Morris. "The people all over the state are recalling the fact that in 1900 and 1902, when the state had had stolen control of the legislature, they violated their platform pledges. When the progressive republicans gained control of the legislature, the people remember that the platform pledges were kept. Already the work is off the Philipp movement. The people recall that the backers of this movement are made up of the same group which fought the primary election law, pure food legislation, tax on the railroad, the inheritance tax, shorter hours for labor of women and children, the workmen's compensation law, and in fact all the progressive legislation of the last decade. All this is shown in the character of the resolutions which they have adopted in the 'stalwart county meetings.'"

Rafael Zubaran, minister of the interior in Carranza's cabinet, who is now in Washington, will have received a note outlining the attitude of the mediators. The communication is dispatched and paves the way for the entry of the constitutionalists. In fact, according to the mediators, it is well informed, it is difficult to see how the constitutionalists can refuse, so ardently have the mediators placed their position before them.

DISCUSS PROSPECTS IN WASHINGTON FOR PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Political Bees Buzzing Strong for Party Chiefs to Head Party Tickets for 1916 Race.

Washington, June 3.—Washington is beginning to speculate seriously over 1916 presidential possibilities. Incoming political bees from Indiana, New York, Idaho, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kansas are beginning to arouse the capital, which for months past has been honeycombed with possibilities of war. That President Wilson, his health permitting, will be urged by many Democratic party leaders to accept a second nomination is conceded. That Col. Roosevelt, fresh from his conquest in South Africa, will get his name in the ring, is considered a good bet. That former President Taft is out of all races for Republican party honors is admitted by his best friends. The possibility of a coalition between the progressive leader again. But in the next campaign, the colonel's friends privately hope, Roosevelt will be the choice of the Progressives and Republicans.

There is a pretty big hive of political bees, however, who are doing their utmost to eliminate both Wilson and Roosevelt. Some of them for instance, are the members of the House of Representatives who are all loyal to their present party chiefs—are supporters of Majority Leader Underwood of Alabama, Speaker Clark, Chief Counsel Folk of the interstate commerce commission, and Governor Glynn of New York, and Secretary of State Bryan. Such is the lineup of Democratic possibilities.

Then when it comes time for the Bull Moose to meet in national convention, the former Senator Beveridge of Indiana and other Progressives probably will find their supporters lined up against T. R., maintaining that that party can't stand a better show with the colonel's "back" than would T. R. as a candidate. The race the Republicans will have to select from will have a wide range. Senators Borah, La Follette and Cummins are all being added to the strong possibilities. Some Indiana Republicans think the nomination should go to former Vice President Fairbanks.

As the situation is today there will be little shifting in the strong possibilities until the elections this fall. Whichever party carries the greatest number of congressional districts will in a measure have a fair claim to ascendancy. As an individual, the candidates are concerned with a great deal of Beveridge's future strength will depend upon the race he makes against Senator Shively for the senatorial toga from Indiana. Governor Underwood is in a measure trapped up in the campaign in that state which will probably be the hottest contest since the 1912 presidential campaign. Underwood's real strength will develop probably when he reaches the senate. His prospects rest upon his prosecution of the New Haven railroad inquiry. In the meantime the speculation which is just being heard in Washington will begin to grow as the states send their reports down here, for Washington is the political filtering plant of the country. Booms don't get very far until they have made some headway in Washington and then returned to other parts of the nation.

INJUNCTION ORDER AMENDED BY COURT

Supreme Court Indicates Just What Sort of Operations Are Permissible in Forest Reserve.

Madison, Wis., June 3.—The supreme court last night issued an amendment to the injunction order of last week, which was in detail just what operations will be countenanced by the state forestry department, before the suit is settled, which is to determine the right of the state to own and manage the forest reserve. The amendment says: "It is now considered and ordered that the following explanatory clauses be added and the same are hereby added to the said order at the end thereof, viz: "This order is not to be construed as preventing or affecting in any way the following operations of the forestry department, the expenditures of money therefor, viz: (a), the necessary and usual operations in the care and management of the state nursery or of trees, including the replanting of trees; (b), the making of fire lines upon old railroad rights of way or logging roads by the crews now in the field or by similar crews; (c), the leasing of unsurveyed lands and lake lots for terms not exceeding five years; (d), the system of rotation by experts of the study of the management of the farm wood lots in the state for the purpose of assisting farmers in an educational way along that line, the expenses however not to exceed that now being incurred; (e), the prosecution of survey work by forestry students, such as establishing old corners, mapping, planting, etc., and the surveying of the university agricultural college as a part of their course of study." The order is issued as the result of a conference of the forestry department with the attorney general, secretary of state and state treasurer, who desired further explanation as to just what operations would be considered legitimate by the court under the injunction order.

COMMUNICATIONS ON CIVIC MATTERS ARE ALWAYS WELCOMED

However, They Must Be Signed by the Writer, Otherwise "They Will Not Be Published."

Invitation to citizens to use the columns of the Gazette to discuss matters of civic interest is always extended. However, it is absolutely necessary that before such communications are given publication they must be signed by the writer. Anonymous communications will not be considered. The Gazette has received several within the past few days. One from a heart-broken wife, wants to know what to do to break off her husband's infatuation for a single woman; another relative to pasturing cows near apartment buildings; and a third on the question of keeping chickens that annoy neighbors in the morning. The others refer to civic matters as streets and so forth, and it is unfortunate that none were signed by the writers so they might be published.

HERE IS A PROBLEM TO BE FIGURED OUT

Mathematicians Can Discover How Many Less Flies There Will Be in Janesville Next Fall Due to Crusade.

Here is a problem for the expert mathematician to solve. If one swat of a fly in April is worth a billion in September, how many less flies will there be next fall due to the crusade which brought about the death of 75,700 flies during the crusade that has just closed?

One way the spring will be just as good as 4,378,647,672,000,000,000 swats in September, says an article in a health publication. Now figure it all out.

A table of fly eugenics shows that one fly lays 1200 eggs on June 1. Of these eggs 60 hatch and the sixty flies lay 7200 eggs on June 10, or in only ten days.

On a basis of geometric progression the fly family reaches the above enormous total by September 23.

Of the habits of Mr. Fly, volumes have been written and spoken in the past decade.

An article in a recent edition of the Chicago Tribune commented as follows:

"The problem is one of eugenics. Considering the enormity of the task which rests on each fly, no one will argue that a fly who will fall short in performing the duties of his race is worthy of contempt. But the matter of manners is also essential. Because the world is so thickly populated with the race, the species has become somewhat unruly. It is a matter of common experience to see the greedy creatures come in from any old occupation and rush right to the table without stopping to wash their hands. There lies the point in eugenics—if they were fewer in number this would not happen so often."

Now back to statistics. They are figured on the basis of one-half the flies being female. If only one fly crop to each mother fly. That is not quite fair, for six crops is not an uncommon yield. Six crops would, by Sept. 28, make each mother of June 1 five hundred and eighty-eight million, three hundred and eighty-eight quadrillions, thirty-two quadrillions, and no need of bothering with trillions, trillions or millions.

"Well done. Now, if one fly occupies a cubic quarter of an inch, how many flies make a cubic foot? Two hundred thousand. Then how much space is occupied by the progeny of one successful fly? About 900,000 cubic miles. N. B.—Figure out the "Considering the immense potentiality of each fly that is roused by the trumpet blast at hand and the matter of eugenics already presented, it will be seen that a census can easily be improved by executing at sight one or two of the creatures."

"The call of patriotic fly-fighters is out. None too feeble with age, none weak with youth, if the patriotism is in him. Now figure matters out, are worse, is the time for intervention."

Miss Helen Vlymen Takes Senior Interpreters up River Where Picnic Is Enjoyed.

The five members of Miss Helen Vlymen's senior Greek class with Miss Vlymen as chaperone and hostess, enjoyed a picnic late yesterday afternoon up the river, about five miles, returning immediately following a delicious supper, in which the party cooked their own steaks over coals. It was a Greek affair, directions being handed out by Miss Vlymen, written in the ancient language, as a good test on the senior students. Those who attended the picnic were Sherman, Sheldon, and the Misses Marion Matheson, Edith Knuth, Evelyn Welsh, Frances Brown, and Helen Vlymen.

Prof. Buell to Entertain.

This evening, beginning at seven-thirty, the members of the high school senior class and faculty will be the guests of Principal and Mrs. H. C. Buell at their residence on South Jackson street. Extensive plans for a pleasant evening have been made.

Juniors Decorating.

The junior class are anxious to better the decorations placed about the auditorium in last year's year, and have made extensive plans, especially financially. Chairman Mark Jones is confident of doing so, because of the fact that gymnasium was redecorated and re-varnished recently.

Laurean at Beloit.

Several auto loads of Laurean Literary Society girls went to Beloit late yesterday afternoon, where the party stopped for lunch. They returned soon after dark and enjoyed the ride. The senior members of the society were especially respected on the trip, the journey being prepared more or less in their honor.

MOUSE IS LET LOOSE AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Mischievous Youths Remain at Work During Closing Days of Session—Girls Are Frightened.

A neat little box, tied up with a ribbon, with airholes on the bottom, was untied yesterday afternoon in the main hall of the high school, and it was scarcely five seconds before girls throughout the room were frantic at the sight of a little wee mouse, that crawled out of the box and ran about the floor nibbling for something to eat.

The entire student body in the room were attentive to see just what would happen.

The act was so cleverly done that not the slightest idea of who did the deed can be ascertained. The mouse ran about the room for a few moments, frightening the girls, until Professor Shearer was able to throw a book directly at him, with sufficient force to kill the beast.

"This incident is only one of a few that have been carefully planned and carried out within the past month, at the high school."

"It is the end of the year," the students exclaim, "and must have a good time." During years in the past, and especially in the spring, have such schemes for originating fun been made with practically everyone proving successful with the students.

HUMAN GHOULS WORK CLEVER BUNKO GAME

Pass Counterfeit Check in Purchase for Cemetery Lot—Obtains Change for Check and Disappears.

One of the latest bunko games, a veritable human ghoul that works through the home of the departed, the cemetery, has made his appearance in Janesville and by clever manipulation succeeded in obtaining $35, and doubtless before this has played the same in other places. It is a simple procedure. In fact so simple that one is not surprised that it worked perfectly.

A middle aged man, gray with years and with refined features, recently gained by a younger man, posing as his son, called at a local undertaking shop recently and asked where the office of the Cemetery association was. Directed to the office of W. T. Sherer, President of the Oak Hill Cemetery association, he made known his wants—a simple lot in the beautiful cemetery overlooking the city.

VISIT DAIRY FARMS AT FORT ATKINSON

Persons Attending Farm Management Gathering Enjoy Inspection Trip—Program Ends Tuesday.

By A. B. West.

About fifty people, including students from the state university, and farmers from many different sections of the state were in attendance yesterday at the first day's meeting of the Farm Management Contest at Fort Atkinson, conducted by Prof. D. H. Otis of the state university. The northern portion of the state was represented by farmers from Barron and Eau Claire counties and the southeastern by those from Kenosha county. Rock county had six representatives only, but more were expected today.

The afternoon program consisted of an automobile trip to four farms in the vicinity of Fort Atkinson, the Edgewater Farm, owned by Curtis and Knilds, whose main business is the buying and selling of dairy cattle; the Hoard Farm, where the visitors inspected the herd of Guernseys, all in the advanced registry and the fields of alfalfa and clover; the big disk plow for deep tillage; the farm of Henry Anthes, where pure bred Holstein cattle are kept, and the farm of J. J. Hetta, where the visitors saw the world's champion 3-year-old cow, Queen Julien Dirke, now 7 years old, and her sire.

The evening program was held in the Lyric Theatre and consisted of a paper written by J. W. Soilman of the U. S. Bureau of Agriculture and read by C. D. Smith of the same department, giving results of the investigations made by the United States on farm management. This was illustrated by charts giving statistics of the farms investigated, as to capital invested, amounts paid out

Sport Snap Shots

Ball players have queer superstitions and especially about their bats. They are not only particular about such things as size, weight, quality of wood and so on, but they are even more finicky about the tape at the handle and the way it's put on. They may cherish or abhor a bat for some unusual and apparently useless mark on it. Some of them feel that the tape must be tightly wound on the bat at the handle while others regard this as bad luck and will have nothing on a bat unless the tape is placed wide and apart. Quite often when a player approaching the plate will stop to pick up a few pebbles, which he carries with him. And the ball players' women feel the superstition. One of the players' wives, before she had given up her seat to a lady because she demanded it and was prepared to start something if he didn't. She was the manager's wife and sitting in that same seat the day before she had seen her husband's team win a game after a long string of defeats. She planned to sit in the same chair as long as the team was at home.

A real pitching machine has been invented that put the ball smack over the plate every time and at a speed that can be regulated. Alexander MacMillan, son of one of Princeton's professors, is the inventor of this machine and he merits considerable applause. The device is arranged so that the ball when struck by the batter is automatically returned to the pitcher's hand. The machine is thrown at intervals as frequent as every eight seconds. The machine is set up at one end of a court and the player faces the plate at the court. The machine is rigged up with a steel pitching arm and with fingers that clutch the ball, a spring releasing it at the proper moment. The ball when struck bounces from the canvas background, which is marked off to indicate singles, two-baggers and so on. The ball rolls down the canvas and returns to the pitching machine. The only thing the machine can't do is curving a ball, but it can be regulated as to speed, height, and time in such a way as to fool the batter.

It would seem that golf champion.

SWIMMING POOL TO OPEN ON THURSDAY

Ideal Water Spot Will Be Ready At 4:15 Tomorrow to Accommodate Its Members.

After a period of unavoidably delay, the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool is to be officially opened to the members of the association on Thursday afternoon. The period of "Watchful Waiting," is over and the small and large boys will be ready to take their first dip into the hole.

It was decided today by those in charge that the pool be officially opened tomorrow afternoon by the A. Junior boys, who will swim from 4:15 until 4:45. From 5 until 5:30 the B. Juniors will hold their class in the tank. The pool is to be supervised by the physical director, Frank Yordy, who will be in attendance at all swimming classes.

The association aims to give the boys and young men a place where they may learn to swim, amid pleasant surroundings, and with the assurance that they are to be under competent instructors. With this in view, each class is to meet by themselves and have the entire use of the pool three times a week. All seniors and business men or all those under 18 years of age, will have the use of the tank between the hours of 9:30 in the morning until 9:30 at night, by appointment, except when it is used by regular scheduled classes.

For the benefit of all boys who cannot swim, a class will meet on Wednesday from 4:15 until 4:45. This class is especially for the younger boys who might feel timid to go into the tank with their class group, who might be experienced swimmers.

The schedule which is made out as follows, may be changed from time to time, so as to accommodate the largest numbers.

A PREJUDICED WITNESS.

This is a characterization of ex-President Mellen of the New Haven railroad by the Wall Street Journal.

This paper can not see where the bias of government ownership of railroads is justified in the testimony of Mr. Mellen.

Perhaps after years of listening, unparalled in the history of American railroad, cynicism from ex-President Mellen is not surprising. But this is exactly the weakness which a greater man would have avoided.

The following great speaker for himself: "You ask me why I believe that public ownership is inevitable, and that it is coming fast in this country. My answer is that if all the reforms which I speak of are adopted, those who control railroads and who exercise the political power through them and through newspapers or otherwise would be quite willing to have public ownership come."

The salaries of the executive officers should not be excessive. They are exorbitant now because the influential men who create these executive offices want the men to be subservient to their private financial masters. Such officers do not serve the stockholders. They serve the financial bosses, who make profits through their control of the railroad and outside business.

Failure in the management of a railroad, from whatever cause, is no argument for government ownership of American railroads, in view of the overwhelming success of private ownership under effective government regulation. The charge that the president of the railroad is the servant of a "financial boss" amounts to the assertion that the relations between Mr. Mellen and the late Mr. Morgan were typical, when they were so exceptional as to invite investigation.

To take a single instance, will it be suggested that the president of the Pennsylvania is the servant of any financial boss, or that his road is run by the newspapers, or that it would be better run by government ownership with a board of politician directors? Scores of other roads might be mentioned, and those roads which in any way accord with Mr. Mellen's description are and always have been in a conspicuous minority.

What is an exorbitant salary? If Mr. Mellen, by the exercise of a tact he admittedly does not possess, could have kept the New England system out of continual hot water, he would have been cheap at $200,000 a year. A competent railroad president receives $100,000 a year or more, because he is worth more than that, and not less. His position is no accident, and, like every first-rate man at the head of a first-rate business, he is underpaid. When such a man is receiving all he is worth he is on the down grade.

There is nothing in the reforms Mr. Mellen advocates which demands government ownership. Where they are sound reforms, and not mere changes to extend political control, private ownership can make them effective. How could 50,000 stockholders attend a meeting? Why should their proxies not be effective if they are advised in advance of the business before the general meeting?

Failing an autocrat now dead, would Mr. Mellen prefer a political boss, in no way responsible to the stockholders except through the votes of people who do not own the shares?

BACK TO THE SOIL.

This is the day and age of the farmer. "Back to the soil" is the cry of the tired city man. It is in everyone's blood. The simple life. The free life of the country. The trolley lines and the automobiles are partly responsible for it, but the pace that men live in seeking wealth is chiefly responsible. Suburban farms are all the fashion. The farm that the city man can reach with little effort after his day's work in the office or store, is most eagerly sought. An hour's ride, even two, is nothing to the man who works in the big city. It is the end of his journey, he can find the repose which he seeks. The railroads are seeking to facilitate this thought and have entered into competition with the trolley lines.

An example of this right at home is to be found in the numerous summer homes that dot the up-river district. That line the shores of the nearby lakes. The handsome summer residences, permanent ones at that, are to be found along the river on the line of the interurban between Janesville and Heloit. True, it is not really the farm life, but it certainly is the simple life. It is unfortunate that more do not see its value and follow the lead of the pioneers.

An exchange, in commenting upon the situation, says:

"The cry is 'Back to the farm and to the simple life!' It is a catching fever. The drift of the farmer boy to the great city is partly offset by the longing of the brain-fagged city man for a breath of the fresh air and a sight of the green fields and the wooded hills. A silent revolution has been wrought in farm values around all of our great cities by the demand for suburban homes. Farms that were worth a moderate sum per acre are now laid out as residential plots worth as much for a single lot of a few hundred square feet as the acre was worth. Farms farther away from the cities are now valued as villa sites and still further away they are coveted as the homes of the gentleman farmer."

"He is the farmer who loves to gaze upon the cows that he never milks, upon the pigs that he never kills, the chickens that he never feeds and the sheep that he never clips. But he goes to it that the hired help tends to these matters and his pride is in the well-kept farm, the well-bred cattle and the well-fed pigs and fowls. The horses he may drive or ride, for the love of wood horseflesh is inseparable from the love of the farm."

"It is the day of the farmer, the producer, the tiller of the soil, the man behind the plow and the man behind the pickaxe whose brain is busy in the great city but whose love is in the calm of the evening to go back to the quiet enjoyment that nature gives with its green fields, its buzzing bees, its cackling hens, its hollyhocks and honeysuckles."

It would appear as though the Milwaukee Journal was going as trifle far in setting itself up as the arbiter of the policies of the papers of the state by suggesting that they all write editorials boosting the state fair. If the state fair wants to be successful it must have patronage from the state and to obtain that it must expend money in newspaper advertising. Free publicity is all right but the papers of the state would be foolish to swallow the bait to aid Milwaukee by printing columns of fulsome praise of an institution that is being run simply for that city's benefit.

There is a difference of opinion as to how the officers and men of the unfortunate Empress of Ireland behaved in the crucial moments that followed the ramming of their ship by the collier. The slogan of the sea, "Women and children first" was forgotten in the rush for life, and doubtless many more could have been saved had the officers of the Empress done their full duty.

This double salary list of certain state employees is causing considerable annoyance to many throughout the state. It shows up badly when put in print and should be an excellent argument against continuing in office men who will permit such things to become a part of the general looting of the state treasury for the benefit of the "Wisconsin Idea."

Apparently you have to bring a man into court all bloody with his victim's core, caught in the very act of crime, or better still have the jury witness the crime itself, before you can secure a conviction for an offense in the local courts by a jury of the prisoner's peers as the law prescribes.

Wisconsin is going republican, announces Lieutenant Governor, Tom Morris after a preliminary campaign of the state in his own interests as candidate for United States senator. Of course it would naturally, but this year the question of high taxes is going to play an important part in the campaign program and something may happen to spoil Mr. Morris' plan.

School closes next week and the children are rejoicing over the prospect of their summer vacation. The play grounds open a little later and it is to be hoped that arrangements can be completed for the establishment of two more this summer as their value has been proven by the experience last summer.

Admiral Fletcher reports from Vera Cruz that during the first nine days of the occupancy of Vera Cruz by the marines and bluejackets that not one case of drunkenness was reported. This is a remarkable record and speaks well for the discipline of the navy and their allied corps, the marines.

This watchful waiting policy of President Wilson may be understood by Secretary Bryan, but the public are not sure what is going on. Or course the public "be hanged" as one public man said years ago, but just the same they would like to know where it is all leading to.

Janesville school children have set a new record for fly swatting that other cities should follow. Next year if the plan is tried again the total amount will doubtless be much greater than this year, but for an experiment it was most successful.

Soon the sweet girl graduate will deliver her June essay, the sturdy voter of tomorrow his roation, and the country will be saved for another twelve-month.

On The Spur of The Moment

The Investigators. They tell us that O'Leary's cow did not kick over the storied lamp. That caused the great Chicago fire and the citizens' decamp.

They tell us that Diogenes never started out with lamp in hand. Nor on his travels failed to find an honest man in all the land.

They tell us that Raleigh never across the puddle spread his cloak. And that his love affair with Queen Elizabeth was but a joke.

They tell us that the Queen of Sheba wore false teeth and dyed her hair.

They tell us that old Job never had a single solitary cat.

They tell us that Napoleon was not a genius, but a frost.

They tell us that Milton was a fraud and paradise was never lost.

They're slaughtering our pet traditions every day with ruthless hand. And knocking all our heroes in a way that's very hard to understand.

But we can stand the rest if they don't try to make us poor mortals think that J. Ham Lewis' whiskers are an azure blue instead of pink.

Paying the Personal Tax. The other day we went to find out about our personal tax. We gave the clerk a rough sketch of our personal property, which took about a sixteenth of a minute. We got along all right until it came to the exemptions, in other words, what we owe. If you owe enough, you can subtract from the personal tax until you don't have to pay the city a cent. In fact, the city owes you money.

After three hours of steady instructions we learned the following facts about personal tax.

In the first place it must be worked out by algebra, trigonometry, syntax and bacteriology, and then you reach an answer which may be correct and may not.

If you have a diamond ring and an automobile and are married to a brunette girl twenty-six years old, you take the amount of your personal property, subtract your street number, multiply by your height, add your wife's weight and subtract your telephone number.

If there is a second child, you add the weight and age of the child, divide by the date of your birth, multiply by the size of your hat and subtract the weight of your mother-in-law.

After you get it all figured out, you will never have to pay taxes of any name or nature, for they will have you in the boobyhatch.

Our Beauty Cream. The testimonials for our marvelous beauty cream keep pouring in. Here are a few of them:

Dear Sir: I had used one box of your beauty cream and was walking down the street when I met a friend of my school days with him and said, "Introduce me to your granddaughter, please." May blessings be ever yours. MRS. H. G.

Dear Sir: Your celebrated beauty cream has made me so young that I was arrested by the truant officer yesterday morning while going to the grocery. He thought I had escaped from the fifth grade. It is certainly some cream, believe me. LUCILLE.

Uncle Abner. Lem Higgins doesn't expect to be able to buy a new tire for his machine until his uncle dies down in Massachusetts and leaves his estate to him. Luke Timmins is a very spiritual man. He has read the Bible through seven times in two years. His wife takes in washing by the day or week. Mrs. Hank Tumms has ordered a gross of fresh canned vegetables and is now prepared to take all the summer boards that come along.

STATE PRESS VIEWS.

Whose Ox is Gored? For years and years many democrats have almost ruptured themselves with patriotic horror and indignation at the spectacle of republican federal officeholders getting together on committees to shape the course of the party.

Now, however, a change has come over the spirit of their dreams. In Milwaukee, Monday, when the democratic state committee met, officeholders were pretty much the whole thing. Though not in the majority, their propensity to the source of supply added authority to their counsel. Through their advice, and on their note the committee decided not to hold a party convention. Likewise, through their suggestion, the committee anticipated the result of the post-primary convention by adopting a resolution of undying fealty to the present and all his works.

However, we are not criticizing their course. We have never felt that a man should lose his rights as a citizen because his name happened to be on the federal payroll, and we congratulate our democratic friends upon their final tardy acceptance of our views.—Wausau Record-Herald.

Its Course is Run. "Progressivism" with a campaign of "regulation by commissions" has run its course in Wisconsin. So long as "regulation" remained the "Wisconsin Idea" and did not take form in action it was a captivating campaign cry.

The description of an "impartial commission," composed of experts who should adjust all differences between public utilities and the people, had an attractive sound. And the voters were enticed to this program. They voted for it. The commissions were established.

Then the people sat down and waited for results. They are still waiting. What results did come were not particularly pleasing.

It became evident that the public utilities were running the commissions as well as the industries. The advocates of regulation changed sides. The capitalists, finding that the commissions not only gave the corporations what they wanted, but also acted as watch dogs to prevent interference by the public, advertised regulation as an extra advantage enjoyed by Wisconsin companies.

The people, finding that they were worse off than before, have begun to protest. The little taxpayer, who has discovered that he is exploited just the same as before by the corporations and must also support the commissions, is raising a wail that shakes the political firmament.—Milwaukee Leader.

ALCOHOL STORY IS OF BIG INTEREST

Madison, Wis., June 2.—Interesting statistics regarding the use of alcohol gathered from an investigation of the lives of 592 men who have been convicted and sent to the state penitentiary at Waupun, are presented in an article in Evansville's magazine this month by Dr. Rock Sleyster, formerly prison physician, now superintendent of the state hospital for the criminal insane. Dr. Sleyster summarizes the history of these 592 thus:
"Of this number 217, or 36.8 per cent, were the sons of drunken fathers. Of this number 229, or 40.4 per cent, were addicted to the use of alcohol before reaching the age of fifteen. Of this number 311, or 52.5 per cent, habitually drank to excess. Of this number 57, or 9.6 per cent, were abstemious. Of this number 384, or 64.9 per cent, spent their evenings in saloons, at chess, shows or on the streets. Of these three attractions the saloon was the best drawing card." Dr. Sleyster's statement also shows the record of 268 murderers regarding whom he made a particular study. He found in these cases that alcohol was used to excess by 41.5 per cent and that nearly half were under the influence of alcohol when the crime was committed.
"But, granting all of this, it is hardly fair to charge all crime to the hard 'barleycorn,'" declares Dr. Sleyster. "A very near relative of his, whom I have mentioned, is the once fatherly brother and son. The two go hand in hand. Alcohol and degeneracy are unquestionably the two most important factors in the vice and crime problem. Alcohol leads to degeneracy and degeneracy to alcohol. John Barleycorn is a part of a vicious circle."

MICHIGAN CITIZENS TO WORK ON ROADS TOMORROW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Lansing, Mich., June 3.—Under proclamation of Gov. Ferris—the first of its kind ever penned by a Michigan executive—citizens all over the state will observe tomorrow as "road day." In many cities and towns, banks, business places and factories will be closed for the day and thousands of merchants and bankers will work side by side with laborers and factory men for the improvement of the state's highways.
The state highway commissioner, who endorsed the governor's plans for "road day," realized the necessity of effective organization if the results hoped for were to be accomplished, and he accordingly prepared and caused to be spread broadcast over the state a bulletin setting forth effective methods of road building, repair and improvement. His suggestions were expected to be generally followed. In nearly every school district in the state a "road boss" was appointed, and under his direction thousands of citizens planned to work loyally throughout the day. More than $7,000,000 was expended for the improvement of the 70,000 miles of rural highways in Michigan last year and another large sum will be expended for the same purpose during 1914.

GIVE INSTRUCTION ON KILLING FLIES

Milwaukee Health Department Start Campaigning on Destroying Pests
—Give Rules.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., June 2.—Milwaukee's health department is not disposed to let the fly live in this city and has already issued bulletins advising citizens to get to work early. Impressive looking tables showing that one fly may produce so many others that the compositor has to melt another pig of lead to run out of the number of clippers to express the progeny have been prepared and distributed throughout the city. Having thus thrown a scare into prospective entertainers of flies, the department gives the following advice:

BURNING OFF LANDS KILLS SOIL HUMUS; AGRICULTURAL NEWS

To Kill Dandelions, Cut Off Tops and Sprinkle Salt on Exposed Roots.
Department Notes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, June 3.—Warnings to farmers against burning off woodlands or "logged off" lands are being sent out broadcast by the department of agriculture. It is stated that after careful and widespread experiments by the forest service, it is now demonstrated that in burning off lands the valuable "humus" is destroyed. The fires rob the soil of this crop-producing element, it is asserted. Where fire has not entered, a large amount of vegetable matter, providing considerable fertility, and good soil texture is retained.

The fire to fight dandelions is the topic of a government booklet just issued, coming to the rescue of the spring lawn mower brigade. Three remedies are suggested by the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture.
One remedy suggested is to thicken the stand of grass, so as to crowd out Mr. Dandelion. If this doesn't work, cut out the dandelion tops and sprinkle salt on the exposed roots. Then if the weed does not succumb, the only sure remedy is to spade up the ground and start afresh.
Spraying dandelions with iron sulphate is disapproved. The iron kills the grass as well as the dandelions, cutting off the tops only aggravates the plant, it is said, unless the roots are poisoned. After cutting, the roots grow deeper, thicker and harder. Spring is the time to choke off the weed. Iron sulphate in some cases tries dandelions are a valuable truck crop, the department declares.

"Housewives, stop using salicylic acid in your preserves," says a warning from the department of agriculture. Because of the alarming increase in the use of this acid the department sent out an urgent warning. It is true, says the department, that these powders may prevent the decay of fruit or vegetables, but they also encourage uncleanly or careless use and their excessive use may be attended with very serious effects upon the health.

"Salicylic acid is a medicine and it is well known as a poisonous substance and one of the evils that may accompany its use is derangement of the digestion. It is therefore plain that its excessive use in food may lead to disturbances of digestion and health."

The shipping of eggs, hams, little neck clams and maple syrup by parcels post is a success. Records received daily by the department of agriculture and the United States post-office show that farmers in the eastern states especially are shipping farm products to hundreds of patrons in nearby cities. Centered about Washington alone there are 174 farmers who are selling by parcel post. One of them living in Quimby, Va., offered neck clams in 100 lots and sold 900 to employees of the local post-office the first day.

The plans for shipping are simple. Any customer desiring goods from a farmer mails him a basket and a letter ordering the goods. The farmer fills the order, hands the basket to the postman and the goods are delivered. Albert G. Drane, one parcel post patron, has been purchasing eggs for nine months by parcel post. He orders four dozen at a time. During the 9 months he used the same corrugated pasteboard box and only one egg was broken, and that was when the box finally wore out.

Three departments of the federal government have just ruled that all packages of food must tell the truth on their wrappers of the amount and value of their contents. By signing the "net weight law" the secretaries of agriculture, commerce and treasury have put into effect stringent regulations respecting the packing and bottling of food stuffs.

The regulations require that the quantity stated on the container must represent the actual quantity of food exclusive of wrappings and containers. Under this requirement it would not be enough to state that a package of candy contained twenty-four cream peppermints as candies vary in size and this would not be a statement of the actual quantity in the package. In general solids must be stated in terms of weight and liquids in terms of volume.

The new rule is so worded, too, that queer-shaped bottles must not be discrepancies greater than those of standard square or round bottles of the same capacity. Packages weighing two ounces or bottles containing less than one fluid ounce are exempt from the regulations.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

DIFFERENT KINDS OF INDULGENCE.

In his youth Seneca was a vegetarian and a water drinker, but his father checked his "Indulgence in asceticism." This rather startling sentence leaped out at me from a page of biography which I was reading the other day. "Indulgence in asceticism" is a new thought to some of us.

Asceticism is the opposite of self-indulgence. According to the dictionary it means "rigid self-denial," which is to say that Seneca indulged in the opposite of indulgence to such an extent that his father felt obliged to check him.

When any tendency, however good in itself, takes possession of a man and warps his life, it becomes bad. Caution is a good thing, yet I know a woman whose life it has almost wrecked. She is naturally of an extremely cautious temperament and she has indulged herself in it until caution has become an obsession to her. When she goes out of the house she cannot shut a door, lock it and leave it, she must go back and try it to make sure it was locked. With a thousand needless little cares of this sort she fritters away precious time and wears out herself and everyone about her.

Pride is a vice and humility is a virtue. Yet is it not possible to indulge in humility to such an extent that a check is needed? I think it is. In fact, I know a girl who would be a much pleasanter companion for herself and everyone else if she had been checked in her habit of self-depreciation in her childhood. She is always running herself down. The result is that those people who think her sincere take her at her own needlessly low estimate, and those who do not are bored and repelled by what seems to them a pose. Personally I believe her humility is genuine, but it is carried on to an absurd extreme, and it loses her much happiness.

Even unselfishness, the greatest of all virtues and foster parent of them all, may "lean to falling's side" when it is made an indulgence. We all know the mother who is so excessively unselfish that she never gives her children a chance to learn the happiness of self-sacrifice. If it is more blessed to give than to receive, has not unselfishness turned selfish when it keeps this greater blessing all to itself?

Balance is one of the first laws of life. A really powerful character must have balance. Let us look out that we do not permit ourselves or our children to indulge in any propensity until it becomes an obsession that may warp and wreck a life.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

I DON'T like to talk with people who always agree with me. It is amusing to coquette with an echo for a while, but one soon tires of it.

—Caryle.

If men and women are honest they will tell you that their success in life is more of a wonder to them than it is to you.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

Native greens begin with the dandelion, and the dock and mustard soon follow. The tops of beets, pepper grass, which may be early sown, and the leaves of horseradish all make most effective brooms of the blood. Sorrel of both kinds are always an addition to a lettuce salad and water cress is an ideal spring green. Greens of all kinds are far better than beef iron and wine for a spring tonic.

Carrot Soup.—Wash young carrots, scrape them, cut in pieces and cook until tender, mash and put through a sieve; to two cups of the carrot pulp add a quart of milk. Mix together two tablespoonsful each of flour and butter, season with salt and red pepper, mix all together and when very hot serve. A little onion juice is an improvement.

Oyster Leaves.—Use a small roll for each person and five oysters. Cut off the tops of the rolls, scoop out the inside, brush with butter inside and out and put into a hot oven to brown. Drain the oysters from their liquor, scald the liquor and add the oysters to the boiling hot liquor. When the edges begin to ruffle remove them, season with salt, pepper and butter and a tablespoonful of cream for each roll. Fill the shells with the oysters and serve hot, at once. Crab meat is put up nowadays so that the flavor is very delicate and the miner in the far off camp may as easily favor his appetite with the delicacy as the epicure in the high-priced hotel.

Surprise Snowballs.—Peel five even-sized apples after coring with the corer. Into one end put sugar, a little nutmeg and butter and close the other side in the same way. Place a half cupful of boiled rice on a small pudding cloth, spread it and wrap the apple in it, tie and when the five are ready drop into boiling water and cook for three-quarters of an hour or until the apple is cooked. Take off the cloths carefully and drop a spoonful of currant jelly on each and serve with sweetened cream. This makes a most wholesome dessert for children. Raisins may be added to the apple stuffing if a new flavor is desired.

Women Worth While.

MRS. PETER TEN EYCK.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon.

During the present administration Democratic women are naturally much to the front in the social activities of official Washington. They have been the leading hostesses of the season now drawing to its close, setting standards for, and largely determining the character of most of the entertaining done in official circles during the winter just past. The fact that many of these women are, comparatively speaking, newcomers at the capital, has made their activities along social and philanthropic lines all the more interesting to the public.

Among the newcomers is Mrs. Ten Eyck, wife of Hon. Peter G. Ten Eyck, who represents the Twenty-first district of New York state in the lower house. Many years ago a great-grandfather of the present representative of that name in congress also occupied a seat in the lower house, and the Ten Eycks were prominently identified with the history and early development of New York state. They were, and are, closely related to the Van Rensselaers, both names inseparably connected with the best traditions of early American history in their state.

Mrs. Ten Eyck was before her marriage Miss Bertha Dederick of Albany. She is the mother of one son, a precocious boy of nine, who is called Dederick. This name is also a famous one. Mrs. Ten Eyck's father was Peter Kells Dederick, the inventor. During his lifetime Mr. Dederick took an enormous number of patents, most of these being improved agricultural implements, but he best known as the inventor of the continuous hay press. Those who knew him best recall him as a man whose characteristic was his modesty. Even Mrs. Ten Eyck does not remember ever having heard during her childhood the names of her father's inventions, which even then were known throughout Europe and America.

Though the present season is practically the first Mrs. Ten Eyck has spent in Washington, she has made some warm friends there. She has her father's aversion to ostentation in any form, cares little for the more formal aspects of social life, but delights in dispensing a genuine and informal hospitality to her own and her husband's friends. Consequently her home is known to a limited circle as one of the most agreeable in Washington. Since coming to the capital Mrs. Ten Eyck has joined the Congressional club and, with the wives of other congressmen, has entered into the varied social activities of the organization. Genealogy has never been a subject of absorbing interest to her, but she is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and is on continental hall committee.

Representative and Mrs. Ten Eyck have an interesting home in Albany and a summer place, "Lakelet Villa," just out of that city. Mrs. Ten Eyck usually spends her summers here and indulges to her heart's content in her favorite pastime of motoring.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please advise me what to do when mother is in despair. Father works and will not help. Mother how much he gets and on any day he comes home drunk and far from peaceable.

I have three brothers that are old enough to give mother her living and I am working after school hours. I give mother the money. She gives me a dime or so to save. Would you tell her to keep it or would you keep it and get your own clothes? N. E. H.

If your father does not support his family you can have him arrested and judge will set aside a certain portion of his wages to be paid to your mother each pay day; she can go and collect it herself.

Brothers certainly ought to earn their own way now and help your mother, too.

It is right that your mother should give you a little out of the money you earn. Save it if you can. If you are under age your father must support you and buy such clothes as he is able to buy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it proper to accept an invitation of a ride to a neighboring town with a gentleman friend, when he refuses to take anyone else along?

(2) Do you think it wise to keep company with a girl who my other companions despise, although she has done nothing against me?

(3) Is it proper to keep company with gentlemen friends younger than myself?

(4) It is always best for a young couple to have some older member of the girl's family, or some responsible elderly person, with them on a jaunt of this kind.

(5) If the girl is generally despised there must be good reason for it. Better be cautious.

(6) I see nothing wrong in having friends younger than one's self.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What color suit would be fitting for commencement exercises?

(2) At what age should boys think about going with girls?

(3) What is good to take spots out of blue serge clothes?

(4) I am a boy of fifteen years and am corresponding with a girl of sixteen years. Should we correspond weekly.

(5) Dark blue, dark brown or gray would be suitable.

(6) Well, a real healthy, normal boy is usually too busy to think of girls until he's about seventeen, and then he thinks of them by fits and starts. He usually thinks he is in love when he is eighteen or nineteen, and falls in and out of love every few months until he is twenty-one or twenty-two. After that he is apt to settle down to one girl for a while.

(7) It depends upon what makes the spots. Warm water and a good white soap, a soft brush and a clean cloth will take out most spots.

(4) I don't know why you should not write to each other once a week, if you are both respectable young people.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of fourteen years. How can I look taller?

(2) Is it wrong for a girl to write letters to boys?

(3) What will make the complexion white?

(4) I am dark complexion. What color dress will suit best, and what kind for Sunday? BROWN EYES.

(1) Wear one-piece dresses with long lines. Try to be dignified and hold your chin high. You will then give the impression of being taller. Also, you will probably grow taller as you get older.

(2) Not if they are nice boys and she is just good friends with them. I were a girl of your age I should want to talk over these letters with my mother and hear what she thinks about the letters and the boys. It's lots of fun to chum with your mother.

(3) White always looks well on a young girl. You can wear pink, amber and yellow, red and some shades of blue. Wear white for Sunday, with colored sash and hair ribbons.

BEAUTY IMPORTANT MATTER IN MOVIES

Alice Joyce.

Just how important it is to be beautiful if you want to be a movie actress is illustrated in the case of Alice Joyce. Five years ago one of the biggest film companies wanted the another leading lady. One of the producing directors began looking around and found Miss Joyce. She had never had a bit of experience, but she had beauty. So he engaged her on the spot at a handsome salary. Today she is one of the most popular actresses in photoplays, and much of her success is due to her good looks.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY COLLECTION OF MANUSCRIPTS

The Draper Collection of Manuscripts owned by the Wisconsin Historical Society is famous among the libraries and universities of America. That the society possesses still other manuscripts of perhaps equal importance, is not so generally known. Yet its manuscript room contains many hundred volumes, the gift usually of public-spirited citizens of Wisconsin. These priceless volumes render the Historical Society an ever increasing center of resort for students of American history.

During May, the Historical Society added to its manuscript collections the voluminous correspondence of Hon. L. W. Weller of Nashua, Iowa. Mr. Weller, "Calamity Weller" as he was familiarly known to scores of thousands of Iowans, was actively identified with the Democratic Greenback and Populist parties and the labor movement in Iowa during a period of almost half a century. He was at one time a member of Congress, from the 4th Iowa district, and for several decades he maintained a wide correspondence with those of his own political and economic faith. The thousands of manuscripts, legal, political and personal, presented by his widow, Mrs. Weller, to the Wisconsin Historical Society, constitutes an addition which will become increasingly important with the passage of time.

WESTERN ENGINEERS ORDER STRIKE VOTE OVER 98 RAILROADS

Janesville Engineers and Firemen
Are Interested in Big Movement for Higher Wages.

Because conferences between officials of western railroads, numbering ninety-eight, and delegates of 55,000 workers failed in their plans to bring about an increased wage, a strike vote has been ordered by the engineers on the western lines, demanding a forty per cent higher wage, than they are now getting. Many Janesville men are vitally interested in the movement, and are determined to relax their muscles for a time, with their neighboring locomotive men, in order that their demand might be reached.

Negotiations for new wage scales and working conditions for 55,000 locomotive engineers and firemen on ninety-eight western railroads were suspended yesterday until July 14. The railroad officials and the employees' committee found themselves so far apart that the recess was taken to permit the engineers and firemen to take a strike vote on the following questions:

1. Will you accept the present wage scale and working conditions for another year? Or

2. Will you insist upon your original demands for increases in wages and changes in working conditions, and if it becomes necessary to secure them will you withdraw from the service? The negotiations have been on since January 27, 1914. Instead of getting closer together on points at issue, employers and employees kept drawing further apart.

The conference were held in the Transportation Building, Chicago. Hundred on Committee.

The engineers and firemen had 100 men on their committee. Warren S. Stone and President W. S. Carter. The ninety-eight railroads were represented by a committee of eleven, of which A. W. Tremholm, general manager of the St. Paul was chairman.

According to the railroad officials the wages now paid the employees involved are $17,500 a year. The increase asked by the engineers and firemen, they state, would add $27,000,000, or 40 per cent, to that amount. The total mileage of the railroads affected is 140,000 miles. This includes all railroads west of a line running from Fort William, Canada, through Chicago to New Orleans. All Canadian roads, except the Grand Trunk Pacific, are involved.

If the engineers and firemen involved vote to accept the present wage scale for another year further meetings will be unnecessary. If they vote to strike in the event they are not granted their demands, then the government, through the United States Commissioner of Labor, will act as a mediator in an effort to get them to agree to a settlement. If mediation fails, then the controversy will go to arbitration, providing the two parties can agree on the points to submit to arbitrators. This will be the most critical period.

Want to Pay by Hour.

The railroad officials asked for the abolition of the rule of "ten hours or less, 190 miles or less," for a day's work. They wanted to pay by the hour. The employees made a counter demand of "eight hours or less" for freight service and "five hours or less" for passenger service. Before the engineers and firemen will agree to arbitrate it is said these points must be withdrawn or settled. They will not go to arbitration on them.

The railroad officials after the breaking off of negotiations issued a 2,000 word statement of the demands of the employees and the reasons they could not be granted. Chief Engineer Stone was asked to read the statement and issue an answer if he wished. He refused. The railroad officials' statement, however, was said to be so technical that it would be difficult for the layman to understand.

PART WISCONSIN PLAYED IN THE WAR OF 1812
British Captured Prairie Du Chien 100 Years Ago.

Wisconsin's share in the War of 1812 centered chiefly about the struggle between the British and American forces for the control of Prairie du Chien. One hundred years ago in May, a force of 200 American soldiers from St. Louis, led by General Harrison, crossed Wisconsin, to Prairie du Chien and captured without a blow the ancient French fur-trade station. The inhabitants fled to the woods, but they were gradually induced to return, and peace was made with the neighboring Indians. This accomplished, Fort Shelby was constructed of logs, garrisoned by sixty soldiers, and the remainder of the force returned to St. Louis.

But the American occupation proved short-lived. Gathering at Green Bay and even distant Mackinac, an overwhelming force of British and Indians, led by General Proctor, crossed Wisconsin. It fell upon Fort Shelby and after a brisk bombardment from the single British cannon, the Americans surrendered, being permitted to retire down the Mississippi to regain their comrades at St. Louis. Thereafter until the end of

APPLY SULPHUR IF SKIN BREAKS OUT SULPHUR DRIES UP ECZEMA USE LIKE COLD CREAM TO STOP ITCHING

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of eczema and disorders because of its parasite destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin. Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome. This is published for Walter Luther Dodge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio. Advertisement.

COMMUNICATIONS ON CIVIC MATTERS ARE ALWAYS WELCOMED

However, They Must Be Signed by the Writer, Otherwise They Will Not Be Published.

Invitation to citizens to use the columns of the Gazette to discuss matters of civic interest is always extended. However, it is absolutely necessary that before such communications are given publication they must be signed by the writer. Anonymous communications will not be considered. The Gazette has received several within the past few days. One, from a heartbroken wife, wants to know what to do to break off her husband's infatuation for a single woman; another relative to jostling cows near apartment buildings; and a third on the question of keeping chickens that annoy neighbors in the morning. The others refer to civic matters as streets and so forth, and it is unfortunate that none were signed, for writers so they might be published.

HERE IS A PROBLEM

Mathematicians Can Discover How Many Less Flies There Will Be in Janesville Next Fall Due to Crusade.

There is a problem for the expert mathematician to solve. If a swat of a fly in April is worth a billion in September, how many less flies will there be next fall due to the crusade which brought about the death of the pest which is the cause of the problem?

One swat in the spring will be just as good as 4,352,541,672,000,000,000 swats in September, says an article in a health publication. Now figure it out.

A table of fly engineries shows that one fly lays 1,200 eggs on June 1. Of these eggs 60 hatch and the sixty flies lay 7,200 eggs on June 10, or in only ten days.

On a basis of geometric progression the fly family reaches the above enormous total by September 28.

Of the habits of Mr. Fly, volumes have been written and spoken in the past ages.

"The problem is one of engineries. Considering the enormity of the task which rests on each fly, to one will argue that a fly who will short in performing the duties it owes to its race is worthy of contempt. But the matter of manners is also essential. Because the world is so thickly populated with the pest, the species has become somewhat belligerent, especially with reference to its meals. It is a matter of common experience to see the greedy creatures come in from the gutter and alight on the table without stopping to wash their hands. There lies the point in engineries—if they were fewer in number this would not happen so often.

"Now back to statistics. They are figured on the basis of one fly, the species being females, allowing only one crop to each mother fly. That is not quite fair, for six crops is not an uncommon yield. Six crops would, by the way, make one mother of June 1 the same kind of a grandmother of September 28, as twenty-seven septillions, two hundred and one sextillions, three hundred and eighty-eight quintillions, thirty-two quadrillions—and no need of bothering with trillions, billions or millions.

"Well done. Now, if one fly occupies a cubic quarter of an inch, how many flies make a cubic foot? Two hundred thousand. Then how much space is occupied by the progeny of one successful fly? About 400,000 cubic miles. N. H.—Figures don't lie.

"Considering the immense potentiality of each fly that is roused by the trumpet blast at hand and the matter of engineries already presented, it will be seen that conditions can easily be improved by executing at sight one or two of the creatures.

"The call of patriotic fly-fighters is out. Now, before matters are worse, is the time for intervention."

ENTERTAINED GREEK CLASS ON TUESDAY

Miss Helen Vlymen Takes Senior Interpreters up River Where Picnic Is Enjoyed.

The five members of Miss Helen Vlymen's senior Greek class with Miss Vlymen as chaperone and hostess, enjoyed a picnic late yesterday afternoon up the river, about five miles, reaching immediately following a delicious supper, in which the party cooked their own steaks over coals. It was a Greek affair, directions being handed out by Miss Vlymen in the ancient language, as a good test on the senior students. Those who attended the picnic were Sherwood Sheldon and the Misses Marion Matheson, Edith Kuntz, Evelyn Welsh, Frances Brown, and Helen Vlymen.

Prof. Buell to Entertain.
This evening, beginning at seven-thirty, the members of the high school senior class and faculty will be the guests of Principal and Mrs. H. C. Buell at their residence on South Jackson street. Plans for a pleasant evening have been made.

Juniors Decorating.
The junior class are anxious to better their decorations placed about the auditorium gymnasium in past years, and have made extensive plans, especially financially. Chairman Mark Jones is confident of doing so, because of the fact that gymnasium was re-decorated and re-furnished recently.

Laurean at Beloit.
Several auto loads of Laurean Literary Society girls went to Beloit yesterday afternoon, where the party stopped for lunch. They returned soon after dark, and enjoyed the ride. The senior members of the society were especially respected on a trip, the journey being prepared more or less in their honor.

MOUSE IS LET LOOSE

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Mischiefous Youtis Remain at Work During Closing Days of Session—Girls Are Frightened.

A neat little box, tied up with a ribbon, with air-holes on the bottom, was untied yesterday afternoon in the main room of the high school, and a mouse was let loose. The mouse was scarcely five seconds before girls throughout the room were frantic at the sight of a little wee mouse, that crawled out of the box and ran about the floor nibbling for something to eat.

The entire student body in the room were attentive to see just what would happen.

The act was so cleverly done that not the slightest idea of who did the deed can be ascertained. The mouse ran about the room for a few moments, frightening the girls, until Professor Shearor was able to throw a book directly at him, with sufficient force to kill the beast.

This incident is only one of a few that have been carefully planned and carried out within the past month, at the high school.

"It is the end of the year," the students exclaim, "and we must have a good time." During years in the past, and especially in the spring, and schemes for originating fun have been made with practically everyone proving successful with the students.

HUMAN GHOUls WORK CLEVER BUNKO GAME

Pass Counterfeit Check in Purchase for Cemetery Lot—Obtains Change for Check and Disappears.

One of the latest bunko games, a veritable human ghou! that works through the home of the departed, the cemetery, has made his appearance in Janesville and by clever manipulation succeeded in obtaining $25, and doubtless before this has played the same in other adjacent cities. It is a simple procedure. In fact so simple that one is not surprised that it worked perfectly.

A middle-aged man, gray with years and with refined features, accompanied by a younger man, posing as his son, called at a local undertaking shop recently and asked where the office of the Cemetery association was. Directed to the office of W. T. Sherer, president of the Oak Hill Cemetery association, he made known his wants—a simple lot in the beautiful cemetery overlooking the city.

Had a love for the cemetery and desired to be laid at rest there when his last call came. He was from St. Paul and with his son had come to Janesville to pick out the lot he desired. Mr. Sherer took him to the cemetery and showed him the various plots of land in God's acre for sale. One was selected and the party drove back to Mr. Sherer's office to complete the deal.

The price for the lot was $25. The gentleman from St. Paul had expected to pay more. He did not have the exact amount in change, lacked a few dollars, but he drew a check drawn on the Bank of Commerce of St. Paul for $75. It was drawn up in typewritten figures and stamped across it, in red ink, was "Not good for more than seventy-five dollars." Would Mr. Sherer accept the check?

Mr. Sherer did. The deal for the lot, at $40 was drawn, the gentleman asking about the care of the lot, its expense for upkeep and so forth while waiting for his change, $35, and then with thanks to Mr. Sherer for his kindness left.

The check was deposited. Through the due process of bank procedure it was sent to St. Paul and returned branded as a counterfeit. It had been signed and countersigned by H. H. Herst, for such the man designated himself, but no such man was known in the Minnesota city and the check was worthless.

Of course the mysterious Mr. Herst had disappeared. Doubtless he had played the same or a similar game in other cities and thirty-five dollars a day is not bad wages for one day's use of brains. The check was so cleverly drawn it would have deceived almost any one and the man's story was good enough to be believed.

ADELAIDE PHILLIPS

And an Old-Time Negro Melody

Early in 1840 a tiny English lass of seven years landed in America with her parents from Stratford-on-Avon, the historic birthplace of William Shakespeare. At the age of nine little Adelaide Phillips made her first appearance at the Tremont Theatre in Boston. Jenny Lind met her and advised her to go to London, and later she studied in Italy, where she won a great triumph as Asace in "Semiramide." Returning to America she was given an ovation accorded few singers and continued her tour on Cuba. When the Boston Ideal Opera Company was formed in 1879 she appeared in "Pinafore" and the Sullivan operas, and added greatly to her fame as one of America's most popular and beloved contralto singers. It was a memory that can never be effaced to hear Adelaide Phillips sing the encore was demanded. To hear her sing that plaintive melody of Foster, "Massa's in de Ground," vibrated the heart chords and touched the hearts of hearers. This song is to be found on page 350 of "Heart Songs," a veritable library of the greatest songs in the world, and now offered to the readers of this paper for six coupons and the cost of distribution. See Coupon with terms elsewhere in today's issue.

VISIT DAIRY FARMS AT FORT ATKINSON

Persons Attending Farm Management Gathering Enjoy Inspection Trip—Program Ends Tuesday.

By A. B. West.

About fifty people, including students from the state university, and farmers from many different sections of the state were in attendance yesterday at the first day's meeting of the Farm Management Contest at Fort Atkinson, conducted by Prof. D. H. Otis of the state university. The northern portion of the state was represented by farmers from Carroll and Eau Claire counties and the southwestern by those from Kenosha county. Rock county had six representatives only, but more were expected today.

The afternoon program consisted of an automobile trip to four farms in the vicinity of Fort Atkinson, the Edgewater Farm, owned by Curtis and Knilds, whose main business is the buying and selling of dairy cattle; the Hoard Farm, where the visitors inspected the herd of Guernseys; all in the advanced registry and the fields of alfalfa and clover; the farm of Henry Anthes, where pure bred Holstein cattle are kept; and the farm of J. D. Herts, where the visitors saw the world's champion 3-year-old cow, Queen Julian Dirjke, now 7 years old, and her sire.

The evening program was held in the Lyric Theatre and consisted in a paper written by J. V. Sullivan of the U. S. Bureau of Agriculture and read by C. D. Smith of the same department, giving results of the investigations made by the United States on farm management. This was illustrated by charts giving statistics of the farms investigated, as to capital invested, amounts paid out

My Chiropractic adjustments go right at the cause of the disease which is in the spinal vertebrae being out of line and pressing on the tender spinal nerves, thus shutting off the transference of nerve force to the different points of the body, which in time become weakened and diseased through lack of this nerve force.

Sport Snap Shots

Ball players have queer superstitions and especially about their bats. They are not only particular about such things as size, weight, quality of wood and so on, but they are even more particular about the way they handle and the way it's put on. They may cherish or abhor a bat for some unusual and apparently useless mark on it. Some of them feel that the tape must be rightly wound on the bat at the handle while others regard this as a bad luck and will have nothing on a bat unless the tape is placed wide and apart. Quite often when playing to get a hit in a pinch, a player approaches the plate with a bat in his hand, a few pebbles, which he carries with him. And the ball players woman folks feel the superstition too. On one occasion an old gentleman had to give up his seat to a lady because she demanded it and was prepared to start something if he didn't. She was the manager's wife and sitting in that same seat the day before she had seen her husband's team win a game after a long string of defeats. She planned to sit in the same chair as long as the team was at home.

A real pitching machine has been invented that put the ball smack over the plate every time and at a speed that can be regulated. Alexander MacMillan, son of one of Princeton's professors, is the inventor of this machine and he merits considerable applause. The device is arranged so that the ball when struck by the batter is automatically returned to the pitching machine and can be thrown at intervals as frequent as every eight seconds. The machine is set up at one end of a court and the player faces the plate at the correct distance at the other end of the court. The machine is rigged up with a steel pitching arm and with fingers that clutch the ball, a spring releasing it at the proper moment. The ball when struck bounds from the canvas backboard, which is marked off to indicate singles, two-baggers and so on. The ball rolls down the canvas and returns to the pitching machine. The only thing the machine can do is curving a ball, but it can be regulated as to speed, height, and time in such a way as to fool the batter.

It would seem that golf champion-

SWIMMING POOL TO OPEN ON THURSDAY

Ideal Water Spot Will Be Ready At 4:15 Tomorrow to Accommodate Its Members.

After a period of unavoidably delay, the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool is to be officially opened to the members of the association on Thursday afternoon. The period of "Watchful Waiting" is over and the small and large boys will be ready to take their first dip into the hole.

It was decided today by those in charge that the pool be officially opened tomorrow afternoon by the A. J. boys, who will swim from 4:15 until 4:45. From 5 until 5:30 the B. juniors will hold their class in the tank. The pool is to be supervised by the physical director, Frank Yordy, who will be in attendance at all swimming classes.

The association aims to give the boys and young men a place where they may learn to swim, amid pleasant, clean surroundings, and with the assurance that they are to be under competent instructors. With this in view, each class is to meet by themselves and have the entire use of the pool three times per week. All seniors and business men or all those under 18 years of age, will have the use of the tank between the hours of 9:30 in the morning until 9:30 at night, by appointment, except when it is used by regular scheduled classes.

For the benefit of all boys that cannot swim, a class will meet on Wednesday from 4:15 until 4:45. This class is especially for the younger boys who might feel timid to go into the tank with their class group, who might be experienced swimmers.

The schedule which is made up as follows, may be changed from time to time, so as to accommodate the largest numbers.

Monday—4:15 to 4:45.
Thursday—4:15 to 4:45.
Saturday—9:00 to 9:30.

Monday—5:00 to 5:30.
Thursday—5:00 to 5:30.
Saturday—10:00 to 10:30.

High School Boys.
Tuesday—4:15 to 4:45.
Friday—4:15 to 4:45.
Saturday—2:30 to 3:00.

Employed Boys Under 18.
Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, from 8:00 until 9:00.
Small Boys' Beginners Class.
Wednesday—4:15 to 4:45.

Seniors and business men have hours as given in the above paragraphs.

ORDER CONNECTIONS BETWEEN EXCHANGES OF TWO COMPANIES

E. D. MCGOWAN WINS HIS PETI-TION DEMANDING BETTER
TELEPHONE SERVICE.

Physical Connection Law.

Established 1855.

HAS MONTH TO COMPLY

Railroad Commission Directs Janesville Companies to Comply With Physical Connection Law.

Physical connection between the exchanges of the Wisconsin Telephone company and the Rock County Telephone company so that the subscribers to each exchange may have both local and long distance service over the lines of the other, was ordered today in a decision by the state railroad commission. The decision is made under a petition filed by E. D.
McGowan of this city who filed his complaint under the physical connection law passed by the legislature several years ago.

The commission's ruling and accompanying order is a complete victory for Mr. McGowan and substantially his contentions as made at the hearings in the case both at Madison and in this city. The physical connection proposition was first proposed by the Wisconsin Telephone company who employed the legal firm of Miller, Mack & Fairchild of Milwaukee to strengthen its position.

The commission holds that the interchange of connections between the two Janesville exchanges is not only a matter of public convenience and necessity, but that it is also a matter of public interest. It is the duty of the companies themselves and will be in no way ruinous to one another's business. It is probable that some scale charges will be made by the commission in a later ruling by which it will determine the fee which should be charged the subscribers for each connection made with the system of the other company.

Not only does the physical connection ruling in the Janesville case order an interchange of service between local and toll lines, but on the rural lines as well. So that the ruling covers every phase of the situation.

The commission is inclined to be fair in its ruling and gives thirty days' time for the two companies to agree on a scale of charges and terms for the improved service. It is also set forth in the order that the companies may themselves determine the place manner and method of making the physical connection, but if they disagree the commission will step in and adjust matters.

A similar decision has also been given in the case of La Crosse where there was a contest similar to the one in this city.

"It was a complete upholding of every contention that I made before the commission," declared Mr. Mc-Gowan, who has read the decision today. "I have been interested in the case merely as a private citizen anxious to secure the best possible service. I have only been one of the hundreds who have been inconvenienced by the seemingly arbitrary actions of the telephone companies in this matter."

After a thorough sifting up of the history of the case and a review of the affairs of both companies relative to the physical connection controversy, the railroad commission's decision says:

"Since it appears that public convenience and necessity require a physical connection for the interchange of both local and long distance service
between the exchanges of the Wisconsin Telephone company and the Rock County Telephone company in the city of Janesville, that such connection will not result in any irreparable injury to the owners or other users of the facilities of said companies, and that it will not result in any substantial detriment to the service to be rendered by them, it follows that an order must be entered requiring such connection."

"The plan of making the connection or connections between the exchanges of the same, will be left to the companies, and no agreement can be reached as to the place, manner or method of making the connection, a further hearing will be granted the parties by the commission and a supplemental order will be entered defining the place, manner and method."

"As the cost of making the connection will not be great and as the benefits resulting will be mutual, each company will be required to pay one-half of the actual cost."

"Now, therefore, it is ordered, that the Wisconsin Telephone company and the Rock County Telephone company of the city of Janesville make such physical connection or connections between their toll lines and local systems in the city of Janesville as is required for the furnishing of toll line and local service, including each company at the stations installed in their residences and places of business over the toll and local lines including rural lines of the other company."

It is further ordered that the expense of making such physical connection and the subsequent maintenance thereof shall be and is hereby apportioned equally between said companies. Thirty days is deemed a reasonable time within which the companies shall comply with this order."

DOG VISITORS SAFE WHILE IN CUSTODY

Perplexing Question Raised Over Illinois Dog, Who Often "Visits" Here.

What to do in case of a dog visitor was before City Clerk Hammarlund this morning when a workman residing in South Beloit, Illinois, but who is employed in Janesville, asked if he would be required to take out a license.

The dog comes to Janesville several times a week but only as a visitor the man explained. His wife came to Janesville on the average of twice a week and always brought the family pet with her accompanied by the doggie visiting Janesville. After pondering over the question City Clerk Hammarlund decided a license tag would not be required, but the dog should be kept from making any "visits" alone on the Janesville streets and appear here to often or to the pound he would land.

FIFTY DOLLAR FINE IS HANDED SPEEDER BY JUDGE MAXFIELD

Three More Fined for Riding Bicycles on Sidewalk in Municipal Court
This Morning.

Speeders take heed! Emil Roesting, of the Roesting Brothers grocery store, was this morning fined fifty dollars and costs, amounting to $1.50, for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk.

The state law for running an automobile over fifteen miles per hour within the city limits by Judge H. L. Maxfield in the municipal court.

Roesting was arrested yesterday by Motorcycle Policeman Smith on Cherry street, where Smith claims Roesting was driving a delivery car at a rate of twenty miles per hour and better.

One of the police officers on duty at the time of the violation, and Chief of Police P. D. Champion told the court numerous complaints had been received by the police department over delivery boys exceeding the speed limit and endangering the lives of children and pedestrians.
Roesting stated he did not have a speedometer and did not believe he was going as fast as alleged, owing to the fact he had to slow up for the cross walks and the rough condition of the street.

Roesting will be stopped in Janesville this within the power of the police department," remarked Chief of Police Champion after court hour this morning. "The state law provides a fine of from ten to two hundred dollars for the violation, and from fifty to five hundred for a second offense within a year and I believe the laws are on the statute books to be enforced. We are not in a great number of prosecutions, but we want to see the auto owners obey the law and any violators, no matter who they are, will be prosecuted if they continue to disregard the law."

Emil Puntz, contractor, pleaded guilty to violating the city ordinance by riding a bicycle on the sidewalk and was fined $1.00 on the spot.

John Miller declared that the auto speeders were so numerous on Washington street yesterday that a bicycle rider often had to ride on the sidewalk side of the street to avoid the auto dollar and costs and a warning was given him. Fred Bettner was given a like fine for the same charge.
Both boys paid the fines. This is the first time that the city's bicycle riders riding on the sidewalks in two days.

This afternoon P. C. Hull of Milton Junction was arrested on Milton Avenue and taken to the city jail. He left a deposit of thirty dollars for his appearance in court tomorrow morning.

MEETS OWN SON BY CHANCE AT STATION

Thirteen Years Ago, Recognizes

"Do you know me?" asked Edward Dalton, was the question asked Policeman John Dalton, while he was busy directing traffic at the Milwaukee and St. Paul station this morning, during the rush hour at half past ten.

Between blasts of the warning whistle Mr. Dalton managed to make a negative reply. "Are you sure that you do not know me?" he asked. "I twelve years ago?" further continued the stranger. John Dalton paused in his work and said, "Yes, I have a son by that name."

The outcome of the conversation was that the stranger was a son of John Dalton, whom he had not seen or heard from for thirteen years.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF INDULGENCE.
In his youth Seneca was a vegetarian and a water drinker, but his father checked his "indulgence in asceticism."
This rather startling sentence leaped out at me from a page of biography which I was reading the other day. "Indulgence in asceticism" is a new thought to some of us.
Asceticism means "rigid self denial," which is to say that Seneca indulged in the opposite of indulgence to such an extent that his father felt obliged to check him.

When any tendency, however good in itself, takes possession of a man and warps his life, it becomes bad. Caution is a good thing, yet I know a woman whose life it has almost wrecked. She is naturally of an extremely cautious temperament and she has indulged herself in it until caution has become an obsession to her. When she goes out of the house she cannot shut a door, lock it and leave it. She must go back and try it to make sure it was locked. With a thousand needless little cares of this sort she fritters away precious time and wears out herself and everyone about her.

Pride is a vice and humility is a virtue. Yet is it not possible to indulge oneself in humility to such an extent that a check is needed? It think it is. In fact, I know a girl who would be a much pleasanter companion for herself and everyone else if she had been checked in her habit of self depreciation in her childhood. She is always running herself down. The result is that those people who think her sincere take her at her own needlessly low estimate, and those who do not are bored and repelled by what seems to them a pose.

Personally I believe her humility is genuine, but it is carried on to an absurd extreme, and it loses her much happiness.

Even selfishness, the greatest of all virtues and foster parent of them all, may "run to falling's side" when it is made an indulgence. We all know the mother who is so excessively unselfish that she never gives her children a chance to learn the happiness of self sacrifice. If it is more blessed to give than to receive, has not selfishness turned selfish when it keeps this greater blessing all to itself?

Balance is one of the first laws of life. A really powerful character must have balance. Let us look out that we do not permit ourselves or our children to indulge in any propensity until it becomes an obsession that may warp and wreck a life.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

DON'T like to talk with people who always agree with me. It is amusing to coquette with an echo for a while, but one soon tires of it.

If men and women are honest they will tell you that their success in life is more of a wonder to them than it is to you.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

Native greens begin with the dandelion, and the dock and mustard soon follow. The tops of beets, pepper grass, which may be early sown, and the leaves of horseradish all make most effective brooms of the blood. Sorrel of both kinds are always an addition to a lettuce salad and water cress is an ideal spring green. Greens of all kinds are far better than beef iron and wine for a spring tonic.

Carrot Soup.—Wash young carrots, scrape them, cut in pieces and cook until tender, mash and put through a sieve; to two cups of the carrot pulp add a quart of milk. Mix together two tablespoonsful each of flour and butter, season with salt and red pepper, mix all together and when very hot serve. A little onion juice is an improvement.

Oyster Loaves.—Use a small roll for each person and five oysters. Cut off the tops of the rolls, scoop out the inside, brush with butter inside and out and put into a hot oven to brown. Drain the oysters from their liquor, scald the liquor and add the oysters to the boiling hot liquor. When the edges begin to ruffle remove them, season with salt, pepper and butter and a tablespoonful of cream for each roll. Fill the shells with the oysters and serve hot, at once. Crab meat is put up nowadays so that the flavor is very delicate and the miner in the far off camp may as easily favor his appetite with the delicacy as the epicure in the high-priced hotel.

Surprise Snowballs.—Peel five even-sized apples after coring with the corer. Into one end put sugar, a little nutmeg and butter and close the other side in the same way. Place a half cupful of boiled rice on a small pudding cloth, spread it and wrap the apple in it, tie and when the five are ready drop into boiling water and cook for three-quarters of an hour or until the apple is cooked. Take off the cloths carefully and drop a spoonful of currant jelly on each and serve with sweetened cream. This makes a most wholesome dessert for children. Raisins may be added to the apple stuffing if a new flavor is desired.

Egg and Cheese Timbales.—Beat six eggs very tight and add to them a gill of warm milk, in which a pinch of soda has been dissolved, five tablespoonsful of grated cheese and a pinch of paprika and salt. Butter small timbale molds or plate pans, fill with the egg mixture and set in a baking pan of boiling water until the egg is set. Turn out carefully on a hot platter and pour hot tomato sauce about them. Serve at once, as they soon fall.

Women Worth While.

MRS. PETER TEN EYCK.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon.

During the present administration Democratic women are naturally much to the front in the social activities of official Washington. They have been the leading hostesses of the season, now drawing to its close, setting standards for and largely determining the character of most of the entertaining done in official circles during the winter just past. The fact that many of these women are, comparatively speaking, newcomers at the capital, has made their activities along social and philanthropic lines all the more interesting to the public. Among the newcomers is Mrs. Ten Eyck, wife of Hon. Peter G. Ten Eyck, who represents the Twenty-ninth district of New York state in the lower house. Many years ago a great-grandfather of the present representative of that name in congress also occupied a seat in the lower house, and the Ten Eycks were prominently identified with the history and early development of New York state. They were, and are, closely related to the Van Rensselaers, both names inseparably connected with the best traditions of early American history in their state.

Mrs. Ten Eyck was before her marriage Miss Bona Frederick of Albany. She is the mother of one son, a precocious boy of nine, who is called Dederick. This name is also a famous one. Mrs. Ten Eyck's father was Peter Kells Dederick, the inventor. During his lifetime Mr. Dederick took an enormous number of patents, most of these being improved agricultural implements, but his best known as the inventor of the continuous hay press. Those who knew him best recall him as a man whose characteristic was his modesty. Even Mrs. Ten Eyck does not remember ever having heard during her childhood the names of her father's inventions, which even then were known throughout Europe and America.

Though the present season is practically the first Mrs. Ten Eyck has spent in Washington, she has made some warm friends there. She has her father's aversion to ostentation in any form, cares little for the more formal aspects of social life, but delights in dispensing a genuine and informal hospitality to her own and her husband's friends. Consequently her home is known to a limited circle as one of the most agreeable in Washington. Since coming to the capital Mrs. Ten Eyck has joined the Congressional club and, with the wives of other congressmen, has entered into the varied social activities of the organizations. Genealogy has never been a subject of absorbing interest to her, but she is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and is on continental hall committee.

Representative and Mrs. Ten Eyck have an interesting home in Albany and a summer place, "Lakeville," just out of that city. Mrs. Ten Eyck usually spends her summers here and indulges to her heart's content in her favorite pastime of motoring.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please advise me what to do when mother is in despair. Father works and will not tell mother how much he gets and on pay day he comes home drunk and far from peaceable.

I have three brothers that are old enough to give mother her living and I am working after school hours. I give mother the money. She gives me a dime or so to save. Would you tell her to keep it or would you keep it and get your own clothes? T. P. R.

Your father does not support his family you can have him arrested and the judge will set aside a certain portion of his wages to be paid to your mother each pay day; she can go and collect it herself.

Your brothers certainly ought to earn their own way now and help your mother, too.

It is right that your mother should give you a little out of the money you earn. Save it, if you can. If you are under age your father must support you and buy clothes as he is able to buy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it proper to accept an invitation of a ride to a neighboring town with a gentleman friend, when he refuses to take anyone else along?

(2) Do you think it wise to keep company with a girl who my other companions despise, although she has done nothing against me?

(3) Is it proper to keep company with gentlemen friends younger than myself?

X. Y. Z.

(1) It is always best for a young couple to have some older member of the girl's family, or some responsible elderly person, with them on a jaunt of this kind.

(2) If the girl is generally despised there must be good reason for it. Better be cautious.

(3) I see nothing wrong in having friends younger than one's self.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What color suit would be fitting for commencement exercises?

(2) At what age should boys think about going with girls?

(3) What is good to take spots out of blue serge clothes?

(4) I am a boy of fifteen years and am corresponding with a girl of sixteen years. Should we correspond weekly?

HARVEY BIRCH.

(1) Dark blue, dark brown or gray would be suitable.

(2) Well, a real healthy, normal boy is usually too busy to think of girls until he is about seventeen, and then he thinks of them by fits and starts. He usually thinks he is in love when he is eighteen or nineteen, and falls in and out of love every few months until he is twenty-one or twenty-two. After that he is apt to settle down to one girl for a while.

(3) It depends upon what makes the spots. Warm water and a good white soap, a soft brush and a clean cloth will take out most spots.

(1) I don't know why you should not write to each other once a week, if you are both respectable young people.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of fourteen years. How can I look taller?

(2) Is it wrong for a girl to write letters to boys?

(3) What will make the complexion white?

(4) I am dark complexion. What color dress will suit best, and what kind for Sunday? BROWN EYES.

(1) Wear one-piece dresses with long lines. Try to be dignified and hold your chin high. You will then give the impression of being taller. Also, you will probably grow taller as you get older.

(2) Not if they are nice boys and she is just good friends with them. If I were a girl of your age I should want to talk over these letters with my mother and hear what she thinks about the letters and the boys. It's lots of fun to chum with your mother.

(4) While always looks well on a young girl. You can wear pink, amber and yellow, red and some shades of blue. Wear white for Sunday, with colored sash and white ribbons.

BEAUTY IMPORTANT. MATTER IN MOVIES

Alice Joyce.

Just how important it is to be beautiful if you want to be a movie actress is illustrated in the case of Alice Joyce. Five years ago one of the biggest film companies wanted another leading lady. One of the producing directors began looking around and found Miss Joyce. She had never had a bit of experience, but she had beauty. So he engaged her on the spot at a handsome salary. Today she is one of the most popular actresses in photoplays, and much of her success is due to her good looks.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY COLLECTION OF MANUSCRIPTS

The Draper Collection of Manuscripts owned by the Wisconsin Historical Society is famous among the libraries and universities of America. That the society possesses still other manuscripts of perhaps equal importance, is not so generally known. Yet its manuscript room contains many hundred volumes, the gift usually of public-spirited citizens of Wisconsin. These priceless volumes render the Historical Society an ever increasing center of resort for students of American history.

During May, the Historical Society added to its manuscript collections the voluminous correspondence of Hon. L. W. Weller of Nashua, Iowa. Mr. Weller, "Calamity Weller" as he was familiarly known to scores of thousands of Iowans, was actively identified with the Democratic Green-back, and Populist parties and the labor movement in Iowa during a period of almost half a century. He was at one time a member of Congress, from the 4th Iowa district, and for several decades he maintained a wide correspondence with those of his own political and economic faith. The thousands of manuscripts, legal, political and personal, presented by his widow, Mrs. Weller, to the Wisconsin Historical Library, constitutes an addition which will become increasingly important with the passage of time.

"A divorce—why, yes—a separation—what's the difference?" Slade was stooping now to deceive the little woman, who was herself the soul of truth and honor.

"What?" the woman gasped. "A separation is the same thing as a divorce," and he lied shamefully.

"Is it?"

"It will be done quietly," he went on.

"Why, Dan Slade!" She could not believe her ears. "Give up your name? Why, you might as well ask me to give up my eyes. I've got it now—you're looking for a younger. You can't have a divorce, Dan!" All her tears were dry now and a new fiber in her voice.

"I will have it," stormed Slade, enraged because her mood had changed at the word "divorce," just when he had been congratulating himself that the difficulty was all nicely adjusted. "That's all there is to it. I will have it."

"Anything else, Dan. Anything else—not a divorce. You mustn't ask me to take the name I've carried all these years and throw it away. I'm giving in, but leave my name. I'm giving up everything else."

"You might as well stop!" he warned her threateningly. "You're going now, tonight, the first train East to-morrow. Go where you like, see what you like, do what you like, spend what you like. To what you have I'll add a million more, but I'm going to have this done in my own way."

"Oh, Dan!" she shrank from his wrath. "I'm going home."

"No, you're not, until this thing is settled. My mind's made up. I don't want to quarrel with you, and I should if you fought me."

"I won't let you. You can't do it. I can't do it, eh?" The word can't was like a red rag to a bull. He stood over her with darkening face and shaking fist. "Don't you know better than to stand there and tell me that? Have I got to hear it from you? Haven't you seen what happened to man, woman and child, all of 'em, who ever told me that to my face? I'll do it! I'll do it now, by God!" and he strode angrily up and down the room.

The angrier her husband became, the calmer and more determined was Mary Slade.

"Dan," she began very gently, but firmly, "you're stubborn, but you ain't a bit more stubborn than I am when I'm right, and now I am."

"You can go ahead. Do all you like, but this time you won't conquer, because I'm going to fight you, father. I'm going to fight you, Dan."

Then with head proudly erect, she walked to the door, threw it open and cried, just a bit hysterically in spite of her effort to keep her voice steady: "Robert! You can take me home now, please!" She turned back just once to the man gazing moodily into the fire.

"I'm goin' to fight yer, Dan!"

CHAPTER IX.

Thirty years of one way of living becomes a habit—so much so that it is almost a human impossibility to adjust oneself to any other mode of life. Mary Slade, living year after year with Dan Slade, interested in his work, watching him rise and succeed, had come to think of the man as only another part of herself. With him out of her life she felt as if a part of her own body had vanished without which she was restless and ill at ease.

As she sat in the little old cottage where with Dan she started out on married life, she experienced a feeling of detachment as if either this were not the right place, but some sort of inferior substitute, or as though the real and vital part of herself were absent.

The room was just the same as it was the day she and Dan had walked out of it to take up their new life in the handsome mansion in town. Not a thing had been changed or disturbed. The same crooked back, with her old knitted shawl dangling on one hook, hung behind the door. The same well-worn tidies were carefully pinned on the plush-upholstered chairs. The same cheap little ornaments that so delighted Mary's simple heart in the old days still cluttered the mantel. The same near-crystal crowded the sideboard. The tablecloth remained laid from meal to meal after the time-saving custom of middle-class families.

Everything was the same but the atmosphere of contentment that once filled the room; everything the same but Mary's happiness in her husband's love. Outside the window the rose bush Dan had helped her to plant still nodded and blossomed in the sunshine that poured in a flood of golden joy through the windows of the shabby room and emphasized all the worn places in the comfortable old chair where evening after evening Dan Slade had sat reading his newspaper and dreaming of the great future he was confident the fates held in store for him.

In spite of herself Mary's thoughts were of her husband—the first bitter thoughts she had ever harbored against the man. She turned sick at heart at the thought of it. Dan and herself estranged, hopelessly at odds, fighting each other in the divorce court, fighting even over the possession of the little cottage that had his mind intense on the cold, hard problems of finances and political advancement. It was the song in which all lovers find a responsive note: "Nita, Juanita, be my own fair bride."

Conscious of the song, Mary remembered the lamb stew that she had left cooking on the kitchen fire. Dan had always loved lamb stew; that is, her lamb stew. She remembered how heartily he always ate of it, how he never failed to pass his plate for a second "helping," and how he used to look up at her and say:

"This is lapping good, Mary. I think I will have a bit more."

Just as if he needed any urging! Mary found her thoughts growing very tender when she suddenly remembered that tonight she must sit down alone at the table, that instead of two she would only serve one plateful of that stew. Her heart contracted with a pathetic, futile longing for things as "they used to be," and grew bitter as she remembered conditions as they were. She sat with her face pillowed on her arms, so absorbed in her unhappy reflections that she didn't hear the door open, didn't hear a step until someone leaned over and kissed her tenderly on the faded cheek that Dan used to pat so lovingly and declare was lovelier than their garden roses.

"Oh, Rob!" Mary exclaimed, starting up in glad surprise. "I didn't hear you drive up."

"I didn't," Bob laughed, good-naturedly. "My car is stranded two blocks back," and he threw his linen duster on the sofa as Mary hastened in her fond little way to take his hand and hover about him.

"It's strange how near town this place seems to be," Bob rattled on. "When we lived here before, it was clear out in the country, but with a motor car it's right next door to town."

"Well, aunt," and he stretched himself out in an easy chair, "I suppose it's like heaven to you to get back here to the old home you lived in so many years?"

"Yes," Mary agreed, rather indifferently.

"Any of the old neighbors left, I'd like to see them—some of 'em."

"I never noticed before how many questions old neighbors could ask, Rob," Mary sighed, as she recounted the curious visits of her old friends, who had inquired anxiously and repeatedly for Mr. Slade, how he was getting on, and when he would be down, and a dozen other questions in the phraseology of people who, as old friends, take the liberty of coming as near as possible to demanding that you unburden your soul to them on the spot. "You'll kind of have to dodge 'em, Bob. I don't know when I've lied so. What do you think of a man who forces a woman to lie?"

"Well," Hayes hated the old subject, hated the thought of Mary dwelling continually on her unhappiness. "Didn't they know about Slade?" and he began to toy with the spools of thread that Mary had been using for the inevitable sewing that had so annoyed her husband.

"Either they don't know or they want to find out more than they already know," Mary answered, wearily. "So I sit here lying and lying."

"You intend to stick it out and stay here?"

"Yes," Mary answered with a quiet determination.

"Well, he can't call this desertion," Hayes went on. "You own this house together. It's your home as well as his."

"Yes," agreed Mary, "but it's awful fighting my husband. What's the matter with you, Bob? You used to tell me a lot about Miss Strickland, and lately you—have you had any trouble?" she asked, kindly, forgetting her own sorrow at the thought of the possible unhappiness of this young man whom she loved as tenderly as if he had been her own son.

"Don't let us talk about her," Bob objected.

"All right, Robert," Mary attempted to be cheery as she saw how abstracted and dejected Bob was. "Dinner will be ready in a minute and you can sit right down."

"I won't give in to him!" she declared as she put on an extra plate and knife and fork. "I'll never give him that divorce."

"Don't you ever think of anything else?" Hayes questioned, soberly.

"No; it's no use, Robert; I get hot and cold hating my husband when I think how he is treating me. I know it's wrong, but I do! Sometimes when I wake up suddenly in the night and see the old room and remember that he's living at his club and enjoying life and me here miserable, I just get sick hating him."

shared in the first happy flush of their youthful love and happiness. This, the only place where she could find peace in her loneliness, Dan was trying to wrest from her. It was too near to town, too near to the scene of his new activities, he had sent word to her. She must vacate. She must go so far away that his charge of "desertion" would stand fire in a court of law.

Face to face with the fact that Dan was trying to drive her even from this shelter, trying to drive her out into a strange and alien world, of which she knew nothing and which knew nothing of her, Mary could scarcely believe that Dan was so changed—that even now he would be willing to snatch away from her the place which held the memory of happier days.

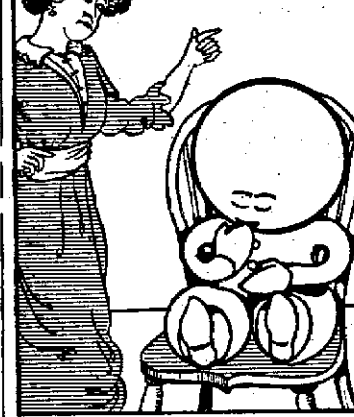

She had not seen her husband since the night in Senator Strickland's library, when the awful knowledge had been forced home to her that he not only wanted a permanent separation, but insisted on having an absolute divorce. Over and over again a thought came into the woman's mind. It was intuitive, instinctive. Try as she might to silence it, she could not put it out of her thoughts. It was that ever-recurrent feeling that another woman had entered Dan's mind and heart. Again and again she pushed it from her, but always and ever the obsession clung to her like a black shadow that haunted her during the day and persisted even in her dreams at night.

From the kitchen came the voice of her maid-of-all-work singing an old-fashioned tune.

It was one that in her young days Dan had loved to hear her sing—one whose sweet melody and melancholy sentiment he had loved in the days before his heart had become hard and

A Confidence

Once upon a time in the not too hoary past there lived a young man who decided he would be a Poet. He was temperamental, sentimental, and could rhyme words with rapidity and dispatch. If there were any minor qualifications necessary for the making of a Poet, he was blissfully ignorant of them.

He bombarded the Editor of his home paper first. His literary effusions near caused him his life; as in final despair the Editor threatened to shoot him on sight.

He did not give up. Genius, wise or otherwise, dies hard. The fact that Editors the country over could not see the real worth in his little masterpieces was the jolt of his life.

His father, in despair ran an ad in his home paper for work for his son as typist (he scorned to send his "gems" out in longhand) and as the Pater knew how to advertise, son landed a really good position.

Now, do you agree with me when I say that if the want ad page can make money for a Poet, it is deserving of our unbounded confidence. There is hardly a limit to its possibilities is there?

FINANCIAL—We offer for sale several 6% farm mortgages that we have taken within the last few months. These mortgages run from 25% to 40% of the value of the lands and are in localities where we are well acquainted with lands and their value.

Our business for the last fifteen years has been to loan money. During that time we have been compelled to learn a few things about securities. We would not now after these years of experience be loaning our own money on these same securities in these same localities if we could find anything better.

Based on the fact we have yet to sell the first mortgage on which there is a loss or even inconvenience to a customer we recommend these at good. Gold-Staback Loan & Credit Co., W. O. Newhouse, Vice Pres. 29-3-22-11.
